GRANTEES

In 2018, Fight For Children was honored to announce the recipients of the 2018-2019 Progress In Play Awards. Grants were awarded to six local youth sports organizations that share FFC’s vision to ensure that student athletes in Washington, DC are active, socially and emotionally engaged, performing well in school, and are on a path to a successful future. Through these grants, over 4,250 student athletes across DC (primarily in Wards 5, 7, and 8) will be impacted over fifteen months.
The purpose of this grant is to support DC Scores’ flagship program, a year-round, after-school program that engages 2,800 third through eighth grade students in soccer, poetry and spoken word, and service-learning to ensure that participants are physically fit, more engaged in school, and feel better about themselves and their connections to their school, peers, teachers, and communities.

WASHINGTON NATIONALS YOUTH BASEBALL ACADEMY (WNYBA)

This grant will support WNYBA’s YBA PLAY program, a summer and after-school program that engages 840 six- to twelve-year-old students in baseball and softball as well as mentoring experiences to ensure that participants are immersed in the game, improve on the diamond, and learn life lessons critical to their social development and character growth.
BEACON HOUSE

Through this grant to Beacon House, 375 student athletes ages 5 to 18 will be enrolled in Beacon House’s award-winning, year-round Athletics Program, which is based in the Edgewood community located in Ward 5 and seeks to enable youth to be successful in school, work, and life.

WASHINGTON TENNIS & EDUCATION FOUNDATION (WTEF)

The purpose of this grant is to serve approximately 150 first through twelfth grade students in WTEF’s 20-year-old Center for Excellence (CFE) program, a comprehensive year-round tennis and education program providing a safe, secure environment for low-income children living in Ward 7.
This grant will provide approximately 100 student athletes in grades 9-12 across HD Woodson High School and Maya Angelou PCS with SOUL’s College Access Study Hall (CASH) program, which engages athletic trainers, academic tutors, former athletes, dieticians, and sports industry leaders to mentor and prepare low-income student athletes for their transition out of high school and assist them in escaping the cycle of poverty.

In June 2018, Fight For Children awarded an incubator grant to STEER for Student Athletes to bring their services to Washington, DC. This grant will assist STEER for Student Athletes’ campaign to support 150 student athletes by 2020. STEER offers programming for student athletes in grades 7-12, residing in all wards of the District, by providing intense mentorship, an array of services and financial support to ensure each student athlete thrives academically and excels athletically.
